Trades' License Act, 1860.

We publish to-day entire the "Trades' License Act, 1860." It affects nearly every trade and profession in the country; and from the manner in which it is framed, cannot but prove obnoxious to the public. It is not the amount of the tax that will create opposition; but the manner in which the tax is raised. The first part of the act enacts that certain professions shall pay an annual license, no inquisition being made on that account into the extent of a man's business. Consequently the annual trades' license will not create any discontent as to the mode; and perhaps little as regards the sums paid. These licenses, however, are retrospective, inasmuch as they are to be paid from the first day of July last. A very singular ex-post facto law indeed, to say the least.

In the third section of the bill, however, is where the obnoxious provisions exist. Nearly every person will be required to furnish a full statement of his business every six months. Thus everybody's business will be exposed to everybody; for it has to be published. We have no wish to raise any excitement in relation to this matter, but such wholesale inquisition cannot but produce it. Business men generally—good business men—have always a great repugnance to publishing their business. It matters not whether such repugnance is well or ill-founded. It exists; and the existence of such a feeling will be strongly manifested. It is therefore painful to contemplate a government endorsing such a measure. We know nothing so likely to offend. In fact, it appears so obnoxious that the wisest course would be to repeal it at once, and impose a poll-tax and a tax on personal property. The latter would have been far more simple; and though sufficiently inquisitorial, would not have been obnoxious to the community. The idea apparently has been to avoid the imposition of a tax on merchandise, for fear such a tax would be considered equivalent to a duty. But such reasoning is a fallacy, as the goods pay the tax under the system enacted. This tax may be called a license, but its inquisitorial character will render it very unpopular.

RIOT AT THE THEATRE.

The Building Invaded and Taken Possession of by the Blacks.

FEARFUL SCENES.

On Saturday night last a riot occurred at the Colonial Theatre, under the following circumstances: About half-past 7 o'clock, when the building was about two-thirds filled, and the curtain was about being "rung up" for the first piece, "Perfection," two negroes came to the side door leading to the parquette, on the French Hotel alley, and demanding admittance, were refused by the doorkeeper. They immediately applied their backs to the door, and forcing it open, took seats. Considerable excitement ensued, and loud calls were made from all parts of the house to turn them out. Several of the audience went forward and asked them to withdraw, and Mr. Townsend, one of the company, offered them a dollar each, saying "here's your money; go out." The doorkeeper, a young man named John Wolfe, interfered and stated that they had not given him tickets, but had forced their way in. At this moment, a white man jumped forward, and grasping one of the negroes by the collar, attempted to pull him out. The latter resisted and struck his assailant, when a fight ensued between the two. The actors, who were all dressed ready for the stage, jumped into the parquette; the portion of the audience in the gallery followed their example, and while making their way towards the belligerents, the door was suddenly burst in, and a large number of negroes, armed with clubs, entered, and commenced striking right and left with their weapons. The greatest excitement ensued. Several ladies who were in the parquette, were induced to go behind the stage, and portion of the whites took refuge on the stage. Several white men were knocked down by the negroes, kicked and otherwise abused, and the fight became general. A huge negro, grasping a chair from the orchestra, swung it around, and opened a path for himself and followers through a crowd of whites, over their prostrate bodies. Another, seizing a camphene lamp from the footlights, threw it blazing among the audience; the compliment was returned by a white man, and a negro's hair and clothes set on fire by the burning camphene, which, however, was soon extinguished by one of his friends. Another lamp was upset on the stage, and a blaze, which threatened to fire the whole place, arose. The cry of "fire" was now mingled with the general uproar. The alarm was carried to the truck-house, and the fire-bell rang out an alarm. A messenger was also dispatched to the station-house, and several of the police, under Acting-Superintendent Smith, were soon on their way towards the scene of riot. In the meantime, the fire on the stage had been extinguished by the attaches of the theatre, and the fight continued for a few moments. The whites, however, gradually gave way, and soon the blacks held undisputed possession of the parquette, and several of them took charge of the door. Men, bleeding from wounds in the face and head, were to be seen making their way through the gallery into the street, while the negroes flourished their clubs, and rejoiced over their victory. At this moment, Acting Superintendent Smith, with his force of policemen, arrived, and the clubs disappeared from sight in an instant. Mr. Beatty, the acting-manager, pointed out the principal rioters, and they were quickly marched off to prison. The police also found two revolver-sheaths, a hatchet, and several clubs on the floor. Quiet being in a measure restored, Major DeCourcy, magistrate of San Juan Island, mounted the stage and made a few pertinent remarks, advising the negroes to withdraw, which they did, and all was quieted in a few moments, and the curtain soon rose and the play proceeded. The police acted with an energy and system highly commendable; every man seemed to have been instructed as to his duty, and every man did it promptly. The number of arrests was seven—five negroes and two white men. Mr. Bailey, of the firm of Golding & Bailey, received several severe cuts in the head; Mr. Beatty was badly bruised in the breast by a blow from a club; and—Hall, a waterman, received some severe contusions in the head and body, none of which, however, were very severe. A large number were knocked down and trampled under foot by the negroes; but escaped with slight bruises. Only one black was injured—slightly in the head. At one time the alley way was filled with colored men, and it is thought there could not have been less than 100 present.

After the performances had closed, the parties arrested were admitted to bail in the sum of ten pounds each.

Yesterday morning, the theatre bore many unmistakable marks of the struggle on Saturday night. Blood was to be seen upon the floor of the theatre, the side of the stage, and upon the proscenium. On one end of the drop curtain, a large patch of blood appeared, evidently caused by some wounded person who had made his escape from the house through the back door. Broken clubs, the collar of a coat, buttons, and other small articles lay scattered around the floor in elegant confusion.

After the riot had subsided, several of the colored men bought tickets for the gallery, to which they ascended and remained quiet during the performances. A negro in the pit, between the acts in the play of "Rob Roy," was rotten-egged by some white blackguards near him.

A short time before the performances closed, officers Welch and Blake, stationed in the pit, observed three negroes moving suspiciously about among the white people. They remained a short time, and perceiving that they were watched, passed out into the street. While passing Mr. Blake, that officer felt a revolver under the coat of one of them. The officer attempted to arrest him; but he fled down Government street into the Fort yard, and hid under one of the old buildings. He was closely followed and pulled from his hiding-place by the policeman, but no revolver was found upon him. On leading him back, however, a revolver (a Colt's six-shooter), fully capped and loaded with ball, was found lying near the gate.

The origin of this scene of ruffianism is said to have been the exclusion of a negro named Stephens from the parquette of the theatre about a week ago. It is said the affair had been brewing for several days; and that the riot was the result of an organized plan on the part of the colored population, who, it is asserted, came fully prepared for mischief.

At an early hour yesterday morning, the avenues leading to the court-house were crowded by a large number of people, white and black, and when the doors were opened, a great rush was made into the room, which was soon filled. During the rush the greatest disorder prevailed; the side-windows of the front door were broken, and all seemed bent upon making as much noise as possible. After order had been restored, the cases of the colored rioters—James Stevens, Stephen Anderson, Geo. Washington and A. Richards—were partially examined, and they were ordered to appear for a final examination on Wednesday morning, at ten o'clock. They were released upon entering into their own recognizances in the sum of £10 each. John Wolfe and Jas. Thompson, white men, were also bound over in a like sum to appear at the same time and place.

ATTEMPT AT MURDER.—On Sunday afternoon, about two o'clock, John Howe, an Englishman, and Robert Nelson, a German, employed on the Hudson Bay Company's Farm, near Cadboro Bay, fell into a dispute about the occupancy of a house. Hard words passed between them, when Howe seized a shot-gun and discharged a load of buckshot in Nelson's back as he was retreating. Howe was secured until the arrival of Sergeant Carey and Despard, of the police force, on the spot, when he was handed over to their custody, and conveyed to jail. Nelson was taken to the Royal Hospital. It is thought the wound (which is in the small of his back,) will not prove fatal.

The Charge against Attorney General Cary.

The charge against Attorney General Cary, of obtaining money under false pretence, preferred by Edward Edwards Langford, Esq., was heard yesterday in the Police Court, before Justices Pemberton and DeCourcy.

Mr. Langford took the stand and swore that his information, charging Mr. Cary with having obtained money from him on a bill of costs from the Supreme Court in June last, under false pretences, was true. The information alleges that divers sums of money (among which was the sum of two guineas alleged to have been paid A. Munro as a witness fee) were obtained from him under pretence that they were to be used in paying witnesses in the libel suit of Langford vs. King, but which the complainant alleged were never paid.

Mr. Cary—I give notice, your honor, that so soon as this case is over, I shall prefer a charge against E. E. Langford for wilful and malicious perjury.

Mr. Langford, sworn—I was plaintiff in the libel suit of Langford vs. King; after the trial a bill of costs for £90 9s. 2d. was sent me and I paid; a portion of this amount was alleged to have been paid witnesses; John Miles never offered to return me 8 guineas; he offered me a sum of money which I declined to accept; he did not tell me how much.

In reply to a question from Mr. Cary, Mr. Langford asked the magistrate to protect him; he occupied a very distressing position; all the legal profession were against him, and he stood in need of protection.

Mr. Cary—Did Mr. Miles make this offer before or after you entered your protest to the bill of costs?

Ans.—After.

Mr. Cary—Did you tell Mr. Munro that you had had eight guineas given you?

Ans.—I did not. I had a conversation with Mr. Munro; I asked him if he had received two guineas in the case of Langford vs. Cary. He said he had not; that he had been asked by Mr. Drake after the trial what his charge was, and had replied, "nothing—nor will I take anything."

A war of words ensued between Mr. Langford and Mr. Cary, which ended in the latter claiming the "protection of the court from that man's impertinence."

The court assured him he should have the desired protection.

Mr. Cary—Didn't you tell Mr. Munro that the balance of the money had been paid to the hospital?

Ans.—So help me God, I never did.

Mr. Cary—Were you not told by the Sheriff on the day you came to lay this information against me, that the money for the costs of the case had been paid to Mr. Drake?

Ans.—I won't swear positively. There was a great deal of conversation going on in the judge's room.

Mr. Cary—And yet you come up here and perjure yourself by saying that I received the money?

Ans.—I say I believe you received it. I do not wish you to address me in such a manner.

Mr. Cary—I would not address you at all, and would not defile my tongue in talking to you, but for this charge. Didn't you think it necessary to ascertain whether this money had been paid to Drake or myself?

Ans.—No; Drake is your clerk or agent. I knew, previous to this day, that some of the money had been paid to the hospital; when Miles offered to give me the money, I refused to take it; I refused so peremptorily; the money alleged to have been paid to Munro was never offered to me.

Thos. Williams, sworn—Am Registrar of the Supreme Court. (Bill of costs in case of Langford vs. King handed witness.) Judgment was entered against Mr. Langford in the sum of £90 9s. 2d.; this is a copy of the bill on file in my office; do not know whether Drake or Cary filed the bill; Mr. Drake attended me as to the taxation of costs; when bills of costs are brought to me I invariably tax them; this bill was laid before the Chief Justice.

Ques.—Have you any vouchers of the amount paid Mr. Cary. Overruled.

Mr. Langford read a letter, signed "for Geo. Hunter Cary," demanding payment of the costs of suit—£90 9s. 2d.

Mr. Cary—I object to this letter being read.

Mr. Langford—I wish to know if you wrote it.

Mr. Cary—Call Drake; he will tell you. Wm. Culverwell, sworn—Am Sheriff's bailiff; put an execution on Mr. Langford's house for £90 9s. 2d. costs of suit in case of Langford vs. King.

Ques.—Who ordered you to do so?

Ans.—The Supreme Court. The writ was given me by Mr. Drake.

Ques.—Did Mr. Drake ever order you to bring my goods to Victoria for sale?

Mr. Cary—I am not going to listen to all this nonsense. My time is not to be wasted.

Mr. Langford—Oh, yes; it is nonsense to you; but my life's blood might have oozed out for all you would have cared.

Mr. E. G. Alston, barrister-at-law, seated near Mr. Langford, here laughed loudly.

Mr. Langford—Your conduct, Mr. Alston, is unbecoming a barrister.

Mr. Alston—Don't address me, sir.

Mr. Langford—Your conduct is very improper.

Mr. Cary—Oh, great offence, truly. To witness—Were you ever asked to put off this execution to accommodate Mr. Langford?

Ans.—Yes; and I told Mr. Cary, and he said he would be happy to accommodate him.

Mr. Langford—I deny the truth of that evidence. I never asked him for grace.

Mr. Pemberton—You will have to keep order, Mr. Langford.

Mr. Culverwell—I remember you [Mr. Langford] coming to the Sheriff's office to pay the costs—£97 5s. 3d.; you paid them to Sheriff Naylor; it was on the 14th day of July; I believe I saw Mr. Naylor pay the money to Mr. Drake.

Sheriff Naylor, sworn—On the 14th day of last July I received £97 15s. 6d. from Mr. Langford. Out of that I paid $33 75, sheriff's fees, and the balance I paid to Mr. Drake; took no receipt. Mr. Culverwell was present when I paid the money.

To Mr. Cary—I informed Mr. Langford last Thursday that I had paid the money to Drake. I told Mr. Langford so in presence of Mr. Pemberton and Mr. Waddington that I had paid Drake. I had nothing to do with Mr. Cary in this matter. At the time I told Mr. Langford this, Mr. Waddington, in the former's presence, said, "Oh, you paid the amount to Mr. Drake as Cary's agent."

Mr. Cary—Oh, is Mr. Waddington an informant in this matter then?

Mr. Langford—No, sir; you know he is not.

Mr. Cary—Am I to be protected, your honor, from this man's impertinence.

Mr. Pemberton again promised protection.

Mr. Culverwell, recalled—I cannot swear a receipt was given Sheriff Naylor for the amount paid Mr. Drake; wouldn't swear an entry was not made in a book.

Kenneth McKenzie, sworn—I was offered two guineas for attending as a witness in the case of Langford vs. King. Mr. Miles offered them to me at my house; it might have been a month after the trial; I told Mr. M. that Mr. Langford might retain the money if he wished—if not, to give it to the public hospital; cannot swear whether this took place before or after the 12th day of June.

A. G. Dallas, sworn—I received the sum of two guineas as a witness in the case of Langford vs. Cary.

The magistrate said the witness need not answer; it was optional with himself. The question before the court was whether Mr. Munro had received two guineas or not.

Mr. Langford—I wish to prove that my information was truthful; the summons reads "divers other sums." If you have issued your summons wrong, it is your own fault.

Mr. Pemberton—By courtesy, I have allowed you to put many irrelevant questions.

Mr. Langford—I did not come here for courtesy—I came here for justice.

Mr. Cary—You'll get that on your trial for perjury.

Witness, continuing—I received the money from Mr. Miles, and told him to pay it to the hospital.

Alex. Munro, sworn—Never received the sum of two guineas as a witness in the case of Langford vs. King; think it was never offered me; Mr. Drake once asked me what my expenses were, and I replied that I had not been put to any expense. Mr. Drake said I was entitled to two guineas as a fee, and I told him I did not want it; the money was never offered to me after that; a few days after the trial, Mr. Drake said to me, your two guineas have been paid to Mr. Miles; I never spoke to Mr. Miles on the subject, nor ever authorized him to do anything with it.

To the Court—Had no understanding with Mr. McKenzie on the subject. Think Mr. McKenzie was perfectly aware that I did not intend taking the fee.

To Mr. Cary—If Mr. Dallas or Mr. McKenzie had authorized Mr. Miles to pay the money to Mr. Langford, I should have felt bound to that arrangement; if they had authorized Mr. Miles to pay it to the hospital, I should have been satisfied. My wish was to see it returned to Mr. Langford.

Mr. Langford—I object to these questions, your honor.

Mr. Pemberton—These questions are quite proper.

Mr. Langford—Your honor has stopped me asking questions several times, but you have objected to none of the prisoner's questions.

Mr. Cary—Happily we are not at present under the jurisdiction of the Pope of Vancouver Island.

Witness—I intended the fee should never be charged to Mr. Langford.

E. Hammond King, sworn—Was the defendant in the case of Langford vs. King.

Ques.—Did you ever see the bill of costs?

Ans.—Yes; in the Registrar's office—in the hands of Mr. Drake; it was the day on which it was taxed; that was the first time I ever saw it.

Ques.—Did you make any remark?

Mr. Cary objected to these questions—they were too frivolous—they were childish.

Mr. King—I wish to say to the bench that I remarked the bill of costs was excessive.

Mr. Pemberton said he could only allow evidence bearing on the matter of Munro's fees.

Mr. King—It is necessary for the ends of justice that my evidence should be taken.

Mr. Langford—Mr. Cary was your Attorney?

Mr. King—Most decidedly.

Ques.—Did you ever summon any witnesses?

Mr. King—Never.

Mr. Langford wished a fair investigation. He did not wish to punish Mr. Cary.

Mr. Cary—Well, I do you, and will, after this is over.

Mr. Langford—Did you ever pay Mr. Cary any money?

Ans.—Yes, £20.

Ques.—From whom did you receive that money?

Ans.—From Mr. CHAS. GOOD!

[This answer created great sensation among the spectators, and some hissing was heard.]

Mr. Langford—The private secretary of the Governor?

Mr. King—Yes.

Mr. Cary—This is what I have been dragged here for, is it?

Mr. King—I never told Mr. Cary to summon Munro; never subpoenaed you to bring all your books and papers; I never employed any other lawyer than Mr. Cary.

Mr. Pemberton here said such evidence was trifling with the court.

Mr. King—I think it necessary to state what I know about this bill of costs. I remarked that it was excessive. Mr. Drake replied, "Oh, well, it will learn Mr. Langford better in future."

Mr. Drake, sworn—Received the amount of costs from Sheriff Naylor; Mr. Cary must have known that I received the money; I entered it in my book; Mr. Cary has not access to it.

To Mr. Cary—The professions were separate at the session of court held upon the third of July; you know nothing about this bill of costs; I did the whole of the attorney's business in this case; Mr. Langford's attorney was present at the taxation; I think Mr. King was fully aware of what was going on; I subpoenaed the witnesses; you had nothing to do with the case except as counsel, do not believe you could make out a bill of costs if you tried; it is not a barrister's business; Mr. Wright, Langford's counsel, told me that if he had the making out of the bill, he would make it £150 more; from the service of the writ down to this present case, you knew nothing about the costs; have had conversation with Mr. King; do not think you could have defrauded Mr. Langford out of two guineas because you never saw the bill of costs. Mr. King was well aware of my position.

[Letter shown witness.] I wrote this letter asking Mr. Langford to settle the bill, and signed "for George Hunter Cary." Know Mr. Mills, he is not a clerk in my office; I positively acted as Mr. Cary's attorney.

Mr. Langford—Who ordered you to summon the witnesses?

Ans.—I summoned them from my position as attorney.

Mr. L.—You are ashamed to say who told you.

Mr. D.—Oh, no! I am not ashamed to do so. It was my duty to hunt up evidence.

Mr. L.—Did you ever pay Mr. Cary the amount of £26 10s.

Mr. D.—I never did.

Mr. L.—Who did then.

Mr. D.—I cannot answer that—I did the whole business as attorney in this case after plea was filed.

Mr. Langford—But Mr. King swears he only paid Cary £20, while in the bill of costs I find £46 10s., charged as counsel's fees.

Mr. King, recalled—Ques. by Mr. Langford—Do you believe anybody else besides Mr. Cary had anything to do with that case as a lawyer?

Ans.—Most decidedly not, until long after the trial; I paid Mr. King £20; that was all I paid him except eight guineas for a special jury.

To Mr. Cary—Mr. Drake was present at the time of the trial, sitting with some papers; I had some conversation with him, but did not know he was my attorney; the eight guineas I paid for a special jury, was afterwards he paid to me.

To Mr. Langford—I was not out of pocket one sixpence on the trial; I asked Mr. Cary to return me the £20 paid him; but he returned a message saying that he had given the money back to the person that gave it to me.

Mr. Langford briefly addressed the magistrate, and said that he had paid the money according to the bill; he had proved that he had paid monies for witnesses which had never been given them. He left the case with his honor to decide.

Mr. Cary addressed his honor in reply and said that when this case was over he should prefer a charge of wilful and malicious perjury against Mr. Langford. He, an officer holding a high position, had been brought down to a police court, charged with having committed a deliberate criminal act. He was charged with obtaining money under false pretences. The object in dragging him to court, was to give Mr. King a chance to "blow" upon the government. The man that brought me here lies!

Mr. Langford—And you're a d—d liar! You have fabricated a bill of costs.

Mr. Cary—When this case is over I shall see whether a man's liberty, his honor, his life, can be blasted for political purposes. [Mr. Cary here became very much affected; his eyes filled with tears, and his whole frame shook with emotion.] My character can never recover from this stain—the stigma of this criminal charge. I ask your honor to dismiss the case.

Judge Pemberton addressing Mr. Langford, said—You state in your information that Mr. Cary had received two guineas which he had neglected to pay over to Mr. Munro. Mr. Munro has been put on the stand and says that he would not have received the money had it been tendered him; he also says he would not object to its being given to the hospital, and it has been given to that institution. I should never have issued the summons in this case if it had not been to give Mr. Cary an opportunity to clear his character from this charge. There has not been a particle of evidence adduced to prove the charge, and I dismiss it with censure.

Mr. Cary said he had been driven from pillar to post—his private character assailed—his family's sanctity invaded. He had been persecuted by a set of men to serve selfish ends. He asked that a warrant might be issued for the arrest of Edward Edwards Langford, on a charge of wilful and malicious perjury.

Judge Pemberton said he would defer the issuance of the warrant until he had time to look into the matter.

A SCRAMMAGE.

At this moment, Mr. King said to Mr. Alston, who was preparing to leave the room: "Cary fabricated a bill of costs."

Mr. Alston—You lie, sir.

Mr. King replied, "You're a d—d liar," and instantly struck Mr. Alston in the face with his fist.

Great confusion ensued. The parties were at once separated, and Mr. K. placed under arrest. Mr. Alston made affidavit as to what had passed.

Mr. King—Your honor, I only done to that man what I would do to any other. He called me a liar! and I will knock any man down that calls me that—at any time or in any place.

The spectators, at this remark, shook the building with their applause—and all order was at an end for a moment.

Mr. King continued his remarks, and said that if he had been called a liar in the street, he would have horsewhipped Alston from one end of the town to the other.

Mr. Langford—The authors of the libel against me were Matthew B. Begbie, Chief Justice of British Columbia, and Charles Good, the Governor's private Secretary.

Mr. King—And THE GOVERNOR, too!

Mr. Langford—Yes; and Good, the Secretary, stuck them up around town before daylight on Sunday morning.

Judge Pemberton said he should commit Mr. King to prison for one day, in default of £400 bail to appear and answer the charge of assault to-morrow. The bonds were soon after furnished, and the parties left with their friends.

Arrival of the Otter.

The steamer Otter arrived from Fraser river on Sunday noon. She brought sixty passengers and about $30,000 in gold dust.

W. T. Ballou, Esq., the pioneer expressman, sends us the following items:

A colored man, named Augustus Lyre, was stabbed in nine places and killed, each stab mortal, near Boston Bar, on the 25th October. It is supposed he was either stabbed by Indians or Chinamen. With the latter he had a row about claims a few days before.

Robt. Cooper died at Hope, after an illness of seven days.

The Similkameen mines are prospecting well, and promise a rich harvest this winter, as the water is falling fast, and will give many a chance to work.

The news from Rock Creek is more encouraging. Sam. Kelly, an old Hill's Bar miner, is making about $40 per day. Mr. Bran, another Hill's Bar miner, is doing near as well. Fifteen miles below the mouth of Rock Creek, a stream has been struck that pays rich. It is on the American side.

The great shooting affray that was reported in the New Westminster Times, to have occurred at Rock Creek, was a hoax.

Mr. Cox, the Gold Commissioner, is highly esteemed by all, and it is said that no other man could get along as well as he in that locality.

COLONIAL THEATRE.—There was a good house last evening at the Colonial Theatre to witness the play of the "Stranger." Mr. Beatty took the part of the Stranger, and Miss Sweet that of Mrs. Haller. The play was rendered in an effective manner, very much to the edification of the audience, and the credit of the actors. The afterpiece of "Perfection" was also well rendered, and caused much amusement. To-morrow evening a fine bill will be given.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry—The only pure and genuine Balsam is, and for the last twenty years has been, prepared by SEYMOUR W. FOWLE & CO., of Boston; and their printed name, as well as the written signature of I. BURR, appear on the outer wrappers. As you would avoid the spurious and have the genuine, take no other!
WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY—This invaluable remedy is the last one extant for the safe, sure, speedy and permanent cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Asthma, Pleurisy, Pneumonia, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bleeding at the Lungs, pain in the breast or side, and in fact every form of Throat, Chest and Lung Complaint, as well as Consumption itself.
This household remedy should be in the hands of every family and individual, as a timely application of it to a slight cold will cause immediate relief; while cases of long standing, obstinate, and apparently incurable character, will surely yield to its wonderful curative powers and its great adaptation to the wants of man when afflicted.

CALIFORNIA EVIDENCE.
Mokelumne Hill, Cal., June 16th, 1888.
Having suffered for fifteen years with Dyspepsia, in its worst form, and having consulted with the best physicians, and tried everything recommended without relief, I was induced to try the Oxygenated Bitters, and before I had taken one bottle I found myself much better, and continued taking them until I was entirely cured, and now enjoy as good health as I ever did in my life. I take pleasure in recommending them to all who are similarly afflicted.
